

There Are Lots of Good Cars On The Market

IN THIS DAY OF NEAR-PERFECTION in the great industry of automobile building, almost any standard car is a good car.

A man need make no very serious mistake in buying, if he but allows himself the justice of investigation--of testing the merits of them all.

When we advise The Chalmers--The Master Six--we do so from firm conviction of its supremacy after careful investigation through almost daily contact with every make of car on the market. For ours is a service as well as a sales organization. Our facilities for repair work ranging from the slightest technical adjustment to a complete rebuilding by expert mechanics, our roomy clean storage accommodations and extensive line of accessories including every desire of the motorist--this broad service attracts motorists from all South Texas to us and gives us the opportunity to see and compare The Chalmers Master Six with cars of every description and price. Such minute comparison of merits can have but one result--

Supreme Award to The Chalmers--

GOTHAM NEWS
AND GOSSIP

Becker's will, drawn up eleven months before she died, an estate of $2500 is divided among her children and grandchildren. In the petition filed with the will Charles Becker's address is given as 31st Hunter Street, Canning, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The necessity of keeping their partners at a six-inch distance is playing havoc with social functions among the students of Columbia University. The badge of ill health on the campus is the Newman Club, which, as a Catholic organization, must abide by the edict of Cardinal Farley putting the ban on the tango and other of the modern dances. Its annual dance has been one of the features of the Columbia year, but for the first time in a dozen years no annual dance will be held this month.

The fashionable St. Thomas Church is to be the scene of a notable international wedding next month, when Miss Elizabeth Frances Hanan is married to the Duke Don Arturo di Durazzo. Miss Hanan is a daughter of the late James Hanan, a wealthy resident of Brooklyn. The groom-elect is related to some of the oldest families of Italy. He is now the only representative of the royal family at Durazzo, which reigned during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. He came into his title two years ago upon the death of his father, Marquis Francesco De Matteo Durazzo.

Charles Becker, former police lieutenant and convicted murderer of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, is a beneficiary under the will of his mother, who died last month. Mrs. Becker was never told of her son's arrest and conviction in the Rosenthal case, but believed that he was in business in a distant part of the country. In his away will send. Only the officers whose duty it will be to go to London will have their expenses paid by the organization. The others will pay their own expenses.

Attorney General Carmody's decision that disused car routes revert to the city ends a long fight waged by the Public Service Commission and the State authorities to rid the streets of the metropolis of an obstruction to its traffic and to clear the way for the development of the street railway service of the city as the needs of the future may demand. The present street railways in this city are an evolution from a great number of small concerns, the very names of many of which have been practically forgotten. When they were absorbed, it was not found always profitable to continue the operation of their original lines in their entirety. Still, the big companies held on to the franchises, and by such devices as running infrequent cars, or sometimes operating a single car a day maintained their rights to the streets and prevented any newcomer from acquiring a connection. It is anticipated that the companies will now yield their rights and allow the city to tear up the old tracks in all of the streets except those in which there appears a possibility that the electric charge battery cars may be operated.

The brain of Dr. Edward Charles Spivak, the eminent neurologist and allergist, who died recently at his home in this city, has been weighed in accordance with a promise exacted by the late Dr. Spivak from his son. Dr. Spivak was the founder of the American Anthropometric Society, the members of which agree to bequeath their brains to the society for scientific study. As a matter of fact, however, very little has been learned, or at least grasped, by the weighing of brains. The average weight of the human brain is 1400 grams. The brain of Dr. Spivak was found to weigh 1400 grams. Of the brains of noted men that have been weighed, the heaviest was that of Ivan Turgeneff, which weighed 2012 grams. The brain of Daniel Webster weighed 1512 grams. On the other hand, it has been found that the brains of many noted men have been under the average weight. All of which would indicate that in the matter of brains, as in very many other things in this life, it is quality rather than quantity that counts.

What's it a name? A good deal, evidently, if the name happens to be "Rector." The new company which took over the Hotel Rector after the failure of the old management is fighting in the courts for sole possession of the name. The new company does not desire to use the name of Rector for the hotel. At the same time it seeks to prohibit any one else from using the name. Charles Rector, who made his name famous in the restaurant business, is not concerned in the fight. The failure of the Hotel Rector left him a bankrupt. His career was a meteoric one. For a number of years he plied along as the proprietor of a modest eating establishment in Chicago. His place was practically unknown outside the small circle that patronized it. One day the late Days Henderson, then at the height of his career as manager of the Chicago Opera House dropped into Rector's and found the food and the service to his liking. He recommended it to his wife, the brain of the theatrical acquaintances. Before long it was a favorite place for late suppers. The proprietor made money rapidly and looked for a wider field. He came to New York and opened a big place on Broadway. It was the first and most famous of the "hotter palaces." Here Mr. Rector made money hand over fist, as the saying goes. When his lease on the property expired he built the new Hotel Rector in Times Square. It represented an investment of $2,000,000 and was the limit in the matter of luxurious furnishings. But for some reason or other it failed to attract the crowd of spenders that used to fill the old place night after night. The enterprise proved a flat failure and Mr. Rector went into bankruptcy. The new owners have cut out the "range roasts" and other features of a similar nature and hope to make the place pay as a family hotel.

KINGSVILLE COMMERCIAL CLUB ELECTED.

KINGSVILLE, Tex., Jan. 24.—The Kingsville Commercial Club held its regular meeting and elected the following officers: President, W. H. Kahlden; first vice president, F. W. Jucker; second vice president, Robert Flewellen; treasurer, E. W. House. The board of directors are Robert Flewellen, Max Dover, C. M. Allen, C. H. Flato, Jr., and John A. Cypher.

The agricultural demonstrator for this county, Mr. Borrmann, was authorized to employ at once a teacher for the Girls' Canning Club, also ordered an exhibit of products of Kleberg county sent to the National Corn Exposition soon to be held at Dallas.

The largest hen eggs are produced in Manitoba, those weighing one-sixth of a pound being common.

EVERY COLLEGE IN T.I.A.A. GETTING TRACK MEN READY

Big Field Meet at National Corn Exposition in Dallas Feb. 10-24. Good weather helps.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 24.—Every college in the Texas Intercollegiate Association is getting hard down to work with their track teams in anticipation of the coming field meet and racing events at the National Corn Exposition February 10 to 24. Reports from each team says that good weather is helping them to reach early condition, and this one point alone assures the success of the meet.

One point that seems certain to those on the inside is that each team is going to have a good speaker to cap performances at the meet. From one end of the T. I. A. circuit to the other there is a feeling of confidence in each school that is admirable. It is also a positive factor toward producing results.

Texas University, having a large number of state record holders, is starting with a determination to win the meet if such a thing as well trained men will accomplish that end. The Big Ten had but one loss last week and it looks like smooth sailing until the day of the meet.

Taylor and Daniel Baker have the best chance to damp the State champion.

Norman Payne at Baylor has four good men for the hurdles and short distances, and the Baptists are first in their prediction for the efforts of Captain Agent of the team, D. W. Cook, who needs Daniel Baker, but has the team out nearly four weeks and they are in shape now, with every week adding them more advantage because of climatic conditions.

Two years ago Daniel Baker has just been named to the Texas championship. They declared they would not be denied this time.

Joe Purvis of A & M issued his call for men last week and they are now developing the first real track team the Aggies have sent out in recent years. He and Under Sheriff are the only old men left, but the youngsters are coming to the front nicely. Principal of these are Peabody, a former Fort Worth High School star. Hoping for the short distances are being trained on him.

Luther Harrison at Trinity has been working his men quietly like Daniel Baker, but he is going to produce something more out of his bunch of cowboys Polytechnic shows with Austin in holding on the north Texas end of the argument, and both colleges are going to do their best. Chester Johnson is trying out a popular stud at Austin. He starts but three men for all events, but is confident that he will run over two with them. No one understands how it is possible, but he declares he will show how the trick is to be carried. How Institute is the only school that has failed to give out the "depth" on their team. They have one coach, but they are quiet about prospects.

All right. General Director A. J. French believes that all things will be "right" for the two days' sport. He announces also the appointment of Martin J. Delaney, known to all the world as a competent track official, as field referee. Delaney is director of the Chicago Athletic Club.

ALICE SOCIETY NOTES.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 24.—Alice Moseley entertained a few of her little friends on her seventh birthday this afternoon at her home from 1 to 4:30 o'clock. Refreshments were served at 4 o'clock. The table was tastefully decorated, cluny lace and a large tiered cake with seven tiered cakes graced the center of the table.

Those present were Alice Clark, Moseley Clark, Alice Adams, Mary Stomper, Gertrude Camp, Orrie Lee Camp, Alice Adams, Louise Adams, Anna Bell Evans and Sarah Shultz.

The Alice Baptist young people and Sunday Schoolers gathered and organized a Baptist Young People's Union. The officers elected were Lloyd Edmunds, president, Miss Lulu May Purser, vice-president, Miss Vista Mattingly, secretary and treasurer, Miss Blanche Edmunds organizer. Miss Gladys Lewis, an assistant organizer, Robert Lee Purvis, choirist and Miss Lois Smith, music corresponding secretary.

The Alice Baptist Club met one day this week at the home of Mrs. E. H. Sennett. A pleasant hour was spent in the study of the lesson, after which delightful refreshments were served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. L. Turner.

The Alice Civic Club met in regular session on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Oiger. A good attendance was reported and definite plans for immediate action were made. Regular committees appointed. A call forward the work of improvements.

The next number of the Alice Legion Course will appear Monday night in the person of Alvin Green, a noted impersonator and entertainer, who will appear at the 11th.

The theater group enjoyed a rare treat this week in Oscar Julian and his company, who showed two nights at the 11th. They presented "The Higher Law," and "A Prince of a Slave."

Industrial Notes.

Contractor wives jet to J. V. Kepner is supervising the construction of the Jim Wells county roads, for which $125,000 were recently voted, and to J. R. Farmer is supervising the construction of the concrete bridges and culverts.

Work on the concrete walls and approaches to the court house are now nearing completion. There will be concrete walls around the entire court house block, double approaches from each of the four entrances to the court house and four circular concrete flower beds. A large number of trees and palms will be planted at once. The President Harvey Harlan secured the contract to furnish and plant the palms.
